Department of Justice Wants Ruling Made by Supreme Court.

In line with the President's recommendation for the passage of a law giving the government the right to appeal from decisions upon questions of law in criminal cases, the Department of Justice has started an independent proceeding, to ascertain whether, under certain circumstances, that right does not already exist. It has filed with the Supreme Court for presentation on Monday, a petition for a writ of certiorari asking that tribunal to review the judgment of the Federal Court of Appeals for the Fifth circuit, in the case of James C. Morgan, convicted in Colorado of illegally cutting timber on the public domain, and sen-
